DOWNPOUR PUTS SCIOTO HIGHER, FILLS STREAMS

More Than Inch of Rain Recorded During Night and Early Morning

MARCH TOTAL 6:36

Stormy, Colder Weather Expected Friday

Rain amounting to 1.15 inches fell in Circleville between noon Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday, boosting the total precipitation in March to more than six inches, more than double the usual amount.

Streams of the county were swollen and the Scioto river had started to flow into lowlands early in the afternoon.

Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather observer, checked the river's stage at noon Thursday and found it was nine and one-half feet, four feet higher than Wednesday afternoon's reading. He said the amount of drift floating on the road indicated that the stream would go much higher.

Usual Reading 3 Inches

Rainfall for March up to noon Thursday was 6.36 inches, or 3.36 above normal for the month. The highest temperature recorded Wednesday was 72 and the lowest during the night was 60.

Stormy weather was on the forecast for late Thursday. Friday is expected to be colder. Snow flurries were predicted for Northeastern Ohio.

Rain-soaked roads were blamed for accidents in which three men escaped injury Thursday when autos in which they were riding skidded and overturned.

The auto owned by Renich W. Dunlap, of Kingston, and driven by Saul Coalkey, also of Kingston, skidded on the Kingston pine near the Renich Dreisbach farm. It upset.

A car driven by W. M. Grohe, 215 Eastern avenue, Chillicothe, was damaged when it skidded and overturned along Route 22, just west of the river bridge.

Both cars were taken to the E. E. Clifton garage.

STATE PAROLES JURY MAY HEAR OF NAZI BUNDS

COLUMBUS, March 31—(UP)—The special grand jury, which has been investigating pardons and paroles, may be reconvened next week to inquire into activities of the German-American Bund and its Nazi youth camps in Ohio. Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy said they must be "unbiased."

CHRYSLER SAYS SHUTDOWN WILL FOLLOW STRIKE

DETROIT, March 31—(UP)—A notice posted in all Detroit plants of Chrysler corporation today said the management had learned that a "stop work" strike was planned in the Plymouth factory.

The corporation warned that such a strike would force the management to stop production.

"We are told that the plan is to wait until everybody is at his usual place and then to stop work, letting the conveyors and other machinery keep right on operating," the notice said.

Contract negotiations have been at a standstill since the union refused a corporation offer to renew the existing contract without change. The current agreement is one signed by Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis, chairman of the C. I. O., last March 31. It brought an end to a month-long strike which closed all Chrysler plants in the United States.

Cantor charged that Nazis had threatened sponsors of his radio broadcasts with a boycott by Germans if his programs continued.

The Exchange Telegraph had carried a dispatch today, quoting a Doorn dispatch in the Paris newspaper Petit Parisien, that the former kaiser had suffered a sudden grave illness which close associates feared might prove fatal.

The next Pack meeting, for parents and youths, will be held in Organization of the Cub Pack was sponsored by a committee composed of Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Clark Will, and Mrs. Guy Pettit. This is the first attempt to establish Cubbing, the new boy program of the Boy Scout movement, in Pickaway county.

Excavations have been started at the disposal plant site at the rear of the Container Corporation. Engineers said Thursday that excavations were being made for the east digestion tank of the plant and the Container Corporation's by-pass line.

PRESIDENT WRITES TO FRIEND DENYING DICTATORSHIP IDEA

No Inclination, None of Necessary Qualifications and Too Much Knowledge of Existing Foreign Conditions Cited By Executive, Who Defends Reorganization Bill

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 31—(UP)—White House attaches routed newspaper correspondents assigned to President Roosevelt from bed early today and handed them copies of a letter which the President had written to an unnamed friend to defend the government reorganization bill and to deny that he aspired to be an American dictator.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote his friend:

"(A) I have no inclination to be a dictator.

"(B) I have none of the qualifications which would make me a successful dictator.

"(C) I have much historical background and too much knowledge of existing dictatorships to make me desire any form of dictatorship for a democracy like the United States of America."

Campaign 40 Years Old

The President then entered into a detailed discussion of the government reorganization bill which critics allege would give him dictatorial powers. He said the bill, passed by the senate Monday by a slender margin and up for debate in the house today, was the "culmination of an effort started over 40 years ago to make the business and, i.e., the executive branch of the federal government, more business-like and more efficient. Seven or eight of my immediate predecessors in the presidency have recommended reorganization measures."

Mr. Roosevelt made copies of his letter public some hours after the senate had debated heatedly his Tuesday's press conference comment on senate passage of the bill.

Mr. Roosevelt said then that the senate had proved it could not be "purchased" by organized telegrams based on misrepresentation. His use of the word "purchased" was resented by a number of senators.

Mr. Roosevelt told his friend that the opposition has planted

T.V.A. BILL GOES TO WHITE HOUSE

Senate Approves House Amendments Without Debate

WASHINGTON, March 31—(UP)—The senate today completed congressional action on the resolution to create a joint congressional investigating committee for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

It agreed without debate to house amendments and sent the measure to the White House for the President's signature.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., brought the amendments before the senate at the opening of the session.

When signed, there will be created for the first time a joint investigating committee with the formal approval of a president. Committees usually are formed by concurrent resolution, requiring only approval of both houses of congress.

Vice-President John N. Garner said that he is ready to name five senators for the committee as soon as the President signs.

Speaker William P. Bankhead has not decided who to appoint. But he has eliminated representatives from the Tennessee basin and insists that the three Democrats and two Republicans he will name must be "unbiased."

U.S., Other Powers In Naval Race

Uncertainty of Trouble In Europe, Asia Speeds Construction

BY UNITED PRESS

The United States, Great Britain and Japan began a new world naval race today as the tide of war swung uncertainly in Europe and Asia.

In Spain, the hard-pressed Loyals dynamited dams on the Cinca river to delay the advance of Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent armies against Lerida, but a Nationalist encircling movement appeared to doom the strategically important city on the Catalonian border. Spanish shock troops rushed against the spearhead of Franco's drive toward the Mediterranean in the Caspe sector, only 35 miles from the sea.

Gov. Walter A. Huxman took personal charge at Columbus, Kans., where seven were dead and at least 100 injured.

Gov. Henry Horner placed the Illinois National Guard and state police at the disposal of 16 stricken Illinois towns. The little railroad town of South Fekin, Ill., was in ruins, with six dead and more than 60 injured.

In China, the wide-spread Japanese advance stalled for the time being and Chinese reports said the invaders were in "general retreat" in sections of vitally-important Shantung and Shensi provinces.

Advances indicated that advanced Japanese forces had out-distanced their communication lines and that counter attacks by Chinese had forced them to fall back until positions could be consolidated.

LIMIT IGNORED

Formal opening of the new naval race was heralded in Washington and London by announcement that an exchange of notes would invoke the so-called "escalator" clause of the 1936 naval treaty signed by the two powers and France. The action gave notice that henceforth the signatories would be free to ignore

TORNADO AND CYCLONE

Sometimes the disturbance was in the form of a roaring black funnel that sped across the horizon with the roar of a freight train, dipping to earth with freakish hops and skips. Sometimes it was merely a cyclonic wind which flattened wooden barns and brick schoolhouses like a battering ram.

Several times the storm split and spared great wedges of terror-sticken area, joining later to bear down on another settlement with renewed intensity. Such was the case at South Fekin, Raymond Lahr, United Press staff correspondent, surveyed the devastated town early today and reported it resembled a scene of wartime bombardment.

LOGAN FACTORY RUNS DESPITE WAGE DISPUTE

LOGAN, March 31—(UP)—While 40 workers picketed in a drizzling rain, an unestimated number of other employees entered the two plants of the H. C. Godman Shoe Co., here today.

Objecting to a schedule 20 percent wage cut, sufficient workers remained outside the plant yesterday to disrupt production lines. All workers are non-union.

Production was disrupted when 75 men refused to go to work, informing Supt. Robert Harley they would not return to their jobs until they could discuss the reduction with F. A. Miller, president of the company, who is out of town. Non-striking workers were sent home shortly after the strike was called. The plant employs about 375 persons.

Harley said he did not know when Miller would arrive here.

WHEAT GROWER INSURED UNDER NEW FARM ACT

Protection On Next Year's Crop Will Include Weather Damage

PENALTY TAX FIXED

Flexible Acreage Limit May Steady Output

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (UP) — Wheat offers the government perhaps the most difficult problem in seeking to stabilize supplies, because of the wide fluctuations in production from year to year.

It is in the nation's "bread basket" that droughts most often strike. When rains fall bumper crops overflow granaries and pile up on farms. Low prices force thousands of farmers into bankruptcy.

High wheat prices have caused farmers to break up the protective sod on millions of acres. Droughts and high winds have turned these acres into arid wastes, worthless for grazing and dangerous to more fertile acres.

Ideal Production Estimated

The new farm act seeks to hold wheat supplies at about 900,000,000 bushels through flexible limitation of acreage. Marketing quotas will be proposed when the supply exceeds 950,000,000 bushels.

The farm act establishes a national wheat acreage allotment of 62,500,000 this year. After this year the Secretary of Agriculture is required to announce acreage allotments for the next year not later than July 15.

The acreage allotment must be such as the secretary estimates will meet domestic requirements and exports and leave a reserve supply of 30 percent, taking into consideration the carry-over from previous crops.

In any year in which the carry-over plus predicted production exceeds normal consumption and exports by 35 percent, the secretary shall proclaim a marketing quota not later than May 15 for the current year.

Penalty Tax 15 Cents a Bushel

The quotas remain in effect unless rejected by more than one-third of the growers voting in a referendum. A penalty of 15 cents a bushel will be collected upon each bushel marketed in excess of quotas.

Farmers who do not exceed their acreage allotment will be paid a subsidy of 12 cents a bushel on the normal yield of the allotted acreage. Any planting between 80 and 100 percent of the allotment will be paid for on the basis of 100 percent.

That is, a farmer who had an allotment of 100 acres and planted only 80 would receive a subsidy of 12 cents a bushel on the normal yield of 100 acres. For plantings below 80 percent of allotment the benefit rates is 125 percent on actual planting.

Each co-operating grower who plants in excess of his allotment will be penalized at 36 cents a bushel on the normal yield of each excessive acre. The penalty will be deducted from benefit payments.

The act specifically prohibits a marketing quota this year for wheat unless funds are available by May 15 for parity payments. Marketing quotas will be independent of acreage allotments, but in no case shall the quota be less than the normal production on half the allotted acreage.

Surpluses to Be Stored

In years of production in excess of normal, or when the price of wheat on June 15 is less than 52 percent of parity (Now $1.16 a bushel) the Commodity Creditor corporation will make loans to enable growers to store surpluses.

The normal supply of wheat is 900,000,000 bushels. Marketing quotas are announced when the predicted crop, plus the carry-over exceeds 950,000,000 bushels. The program is intended to create a reserve supply of 300,000,000 bushels.

The act established a Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, with a reserve of $100,000,000, to finance production insurance on wheat, beginning next year. The corporation will insure production up to 75 percent of normal. Wheat will be insured against loss from

SUPER-CLEANER UNIT INSTALLED BY G. E. STARKEY

Installation of the Columbia super-cleaner unit, the most modern equipment advanced in the dry cleaning industry in recent years, was announced Thursday by Gilbert E. Starkey, proprietor of Starkey Cleaners and Dyers, 701 N. Court street.

A cordial invitation is issued to all to visit the plant to watch the new equipment in operation.

"This unit," Mr. Starkey said,

"is the latest in up-to-date cleaning methods. It has been in use in several of Ohio's larger cities, but I believe Circleville is one of the first cities of its size to have one."

A continuation of satisfactory service, backed by 12 years of experience in the cleaning and dying business, is pledged by Mr. Starkey.

PRIMARY FIGHT OF DEMOCRATS ON IN ILLINOIS

Both Factions Campaign As New Dealers For April 12 Vote

REPUBLICANS SILENT

Dietrich, Horner Tiff Is Being Recalled

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 31—(UP)—A bitter factional fight among Democrats, with each side claiming to be the true supporter of President Roosevelt, features the 1938 campaign in Illinois, where the first voters in the nation will mark ballots to select nominees for the off-year election.

Among Republicans there is almost no contest in the primary campaign and no organized opposition to the G. O. P. slate endorsed by Republican leaders.

The primary will be held April 12.

The Democratic party is split along the same lines which resulted in renomination of Gov. Henry Horner in 1936 over a candidate endorsed by the potent Chicago party organization led by National Committeeeman Patrick A. Nash and Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

The two factions now are aligned behind Rep. Scott W. Lucas, a downstate man, and Michael L. Igoe, endorsed by the Chicago organization, as Democratic candidates to succeed the incumbent, William H. Dietrich, who withdrew from the primary race.

Harmony in G. O. P.

Republicans have sought to put forth a "harmony" ticket and have given almost unanimous support for the senatorial nomination to Richard J. Lyons, member of the state house of representatives and a real estate dealer in a northern Illinois town.

The G. O. P. is watching the Democratic fight, hoping that the losing faction will give but lukewarm support to the winners, or that nomination of Igoe will throw many downstate votes to Lyons in November to prevent election of another Chicagoan.

Both Lucas and Igoe are campaigning on a platform of unqualified support for the policies of President Roosevelt.

Lucas says he stands on his record as a New Deal stalwart in congress, but the Igoe supporters are making capital of a speech made by him on the floor of the house, criticizing the President.

Lyons is campaigning on an anti-war and an anti-New Deal platform condemning the policies of the administration, which he asserts has spent $17,000,000 without ending unemployment or business depression.

Dietrich withdrew from the Democratic primary when both the downstate organization led by Horner and the Chicago organization refused to endorse him for renomination.

Dietrich Opposed Horner

He became the governor's principal enemy by opposing Horner's renomination in 1936. The Kelly-Nash faction unsuccessfully opposed Horner, although all other candidates on the governor's slate were defeated. A heavy downstate vote overcame Horner's losing margin in Chicago.

Lucas, the senatorial candidate of the Horner group, has raised the issue that Chicago and downstate each should have a representative in the senate. Illinois' senior senator, James Hamilton Lewis, is a Chicagoan and his term does not expire until 1940.

The Horner forces also have raised the cry of "bossism," which helped renominate the governor in 1936, and describe their campaign as a battle to defeat Nash and

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

I'll admit that some of these actors out here are pretty good, but if you want to see some real actin' around the studios, you wanta watch some of these high-priced writers. When they know they're bein' watched, they sit, swayin' back and forth with their faces buried in their hands, actin' like a genius and they do fool the bosses pretty well.

But the other night, at home, one of 'em forgot where he was and started to do his "thinking act" when his three-year-old boy says "Daddy, a penny for your thoughts." The writer looked up at his wife and says "Our kid's pretty smart for a three-year-old." His wife says "Well, there's nothin' so smart about it—the child just doesn't appreciate the value of money yet."

Kelly, whom they call the "bosses" of Cook county.

Plea Made Downstate

Igoe, endorsed by the Chicago organization, has replied in the senate with the statement that it is "foolish" to contend that a Chicagoan cannot represent downstate interests and pointed to Governor Horner as an example.

The governor, says Igoe, is a Chicagoan and yet the leader of the downstate Democrats.

Lucas and Igoe, now opponents, were running mates in the 1932 primaries as candidates for senator and governor, respectively. They opposed Dietrich and Horner, both of whom then carried the endorsement of the Chicago Kelly-Nash organization.

Babes From the Woods

FAMILY WEAVES POORHOUSE TIES

MALONEYVILLE, Tenn., March 31—(UP)—Life in the poorhouse isn't so bad. At least it isn't for some. Lije Smith, 74-year-old inmate who has lived there for years admits that:

He has been in the poorhouse, off and on, for more than 40 years. His mother, Susan Smith, was in this poorhouse and died there. His sister, Sarah, his sister Lilia and his brother, Ben, had been there and died there and were buried in the county cemetery up on the hill.

His first wife, Jennie, had died there and is buried there. He married, an inmate of the poorhouse. His wife, Betty, is still there. And a daughter, born in the poorhouse and now grown, is still there.

Ten Children in Family

"Had 10 children," Smith said. "Yes, I reckon most of them was born there. All dead now but three. This one that's here, and two more that are not here. And some died here, too."

Asked how it happened that the family got started "over the hill to the poorhouse," Smith chuckled a bit, blinked his half-seeing eyes, and leaning on his cane, declared: "I saw a picture in a paper one time 'bout that. An old woman limping over a hill on her cane, and it said: 'Over the hill to the poorhouse.'"

Sixty years ago, when he was 14 and when his mother Susan, nearly 70, worse reached Jonesville, Va., where the family lived that work could be found between Knoxville and Middlesboro.

They trudged the 60 or 70 miles, getting a bite to eat from farm homes and country stores along the way. At night they slept by the side of the road.

Soon they found the construction camp.

"Well, said Smith, "my mother cooked for some of the men. Me and Ben got jobs carrying water."

Eyes Injured in Mill

After the railroad job the family landed in Knoxville. Here, Smith said, he worked in a cotton mill, getting lint into his eyes. For that reason he is almost blind now.

Living became harder and harder for all of them. There was sickness, too. Ben became ill and there was no one to care for him. His mother got too old to take in any more washing. After one misfortune after another, they took to the poorhouse.

"Been good to us," Lije concluded, "always been plenty to eat out here."

The Smith family's record probably never will be duplicated. Rules now forbid husbands and wives living together there. They have separate quarters. Marriage of inmates is not allowed.

cation for the Hardy mailly in eleven years. Going to Catalina Island, they encounter adventures strange to their small-town experience. Judge Hardy, played by Stone, is forced to postpone his expressed ambition to catch a swordfish to straighten out internal entanglements. When the vacation is suddenly interrupted by trouble at home it is Judge Hardy who again proves his right to be head of the family, by saving the family funds.

The story chiefly concerns the romance of Wilcox, as a truck guard, and Miss Barrett as his fiancee. The picture reveals for the first time the extensive systems and precautions used by armored car operators in their unique business.

The new comedy offers Hollywood's conception of an ideal family group Lewis Stone is the father, understanding and tolerant. Cecilia Parker is the daughter, just out of college and engaged to a mining engineer. Mickey Rooney is the son, playing his first grown-up role. Others in the cast are Fay Holden as the mother, Frank Craven, Ann Rutherford, Eleanor Lynn, Ted Pearson, Sara Haden, Charles Judels and Selmer Jackson.

ICKES VS. HITLER

THREE is a curious situation regarding that shipment of helium from Texas to Germany which was arranged for last year, after the Hindenburg had burned up.

Arrangements were made by the German government for obtaining from the helium wells near Houston about 20,000,000 cubic feet of this non-inflammable gas, enough to fill three big Zeppelins.

A German ship had arrived several months ago with containers to take away the gas.

It was supposed that all the formalities had been complied with, but there developed a great deal of unexpected red tape.

So far, not a can of the stuff has been shipped.

The matter has been a mystery, but lately an interesting explanation is given.

Although various governmental authorities had sanctioned the sale of the helium, the gas itself happens to be under the authority of Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, and it is said that Ickes simply refuses to give it his O. K. He is influenced apparently by recent developments in Germany, and doesn't trust Hitler, and is afraid that, regardless of pledges, the German government would use the gas for military purposes.

Between those two stubborn men it will be interesting to see how the problem works out. American sympathies will probably be with Secretary Ickes. There was popular support last year for selling Germany the gas, but Hitler's recent policy, particularly his seizure of Austria has aroused general distrust of him in this country.

SCIENCES IGNORED

IT is a strange fact that new discoveries and inventions in medicine and the more mechanical sciences are accepted by the public without question and are promptly used.

New ideas from the social sciences, on the other hand, are generally received coldly, with superstition and prejudice. Their application is resisted so strongly that social progress lags far behind progress in other fields.

We have knowledge to correct most of our social ills, but we lack what an authority calls "social acceptance". He adds that man "gives the impression of heading blindly toward the destruction of what he has created."

What is the cause of this reluctance to make social and economic discoveries useful? Is education at fault? It is natural human selfishness and greed? Or merely slow-mindedness in a field where we have long accepted old ways as natural and permanent?

There are people, too, who hate so much to pay income taxes that they resent every dollar they make.

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

CONTRAST IN LODGE AND BRIDGES

WASHINGTON—Of all the new Senators who took the oath of office on January 5, 1937, when the present Congress convened, none were eyed with greater interest than two young New England Republicans—Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, and H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

Tall, personable and in their thirties, the two men had won their seats by the double feat of trouncing veteran opponents and surviving the devastating Roosevelt landslide. They were the most promising figures appearing on the GOP horizon in many years.

Lodge and Bridges began their Senate careers on even terms. But the fifteen intervening and eventful months have wrought great changes.

Lodge still is a slim, straight and boyishly dapper as he was when he took his seat. Bridges, only a few years his senior, has become fat and overfed, with pudgy jowls hanging over his collar and a taste for big, expensive cigars which he likes to show off to callers.

Lodge, although the grandson of a famous Senator whose name he bears, is unassuming and unaffected. Bridges has developed a pomposity that has made him the laughing-stock of his colleagues and the press gallery.

Lodge has made few speeches; and when he has talked has obviously been carefully prepared. Bridges is always sounding off. Next to Utah's irrepressible loquacious Senator King, Bridges is the most prolix and tiresome speaker in the chamber. "A bagpipe tenor" was the way a Republican colleague once characterized his droning monotone.

LODGE'S STRATEGY

Lodge never makes an important move without experienced advice. This was illustrated in his handling of a secret plan to challenge the price-fixing schedules of the Bituminous Coal Commission. He considered demanding an investigation of the Commission, but instead of bursting into print, he first asked the advice of older Senate heads.

They warned that a straight resolution for a coal probe would get nowhere, since the Administration would pigeonhole it in committee. The wisest strategy, they advised, was to wait until the Coal Commission's appropriation came before the Senate and then open fire. Lodge adopted this shrewd course.

In striking contrast, Bridges stormed into the TVA controversy like a berserk bull in a china closet.

He filled the air with boisterous intimations of corruption and mismanagement, particularly making a terrific ado over an alleged jackass that the T. V. A. had bought for $2,500. The T. V. A. supporters promptly threw Bridges for a loss by revealing that he had confused the jackass with a hoisting jack. The animal had cost $290, was sold for a profit of $60.

The investigation of T. V. A. is being voted despite Bridges rather than because of him, and chief result of his publicity-seeking capers has been to exclude himself from any possibility of a place on the investigating committee. For a man whose sole objective is to fanfare his own name, this is indeed a bitter pill.

into conversation with George Bach and was unable to answer his questions as to whether a charge of electricity in water will kill fish. Seems as though he had heard two electricians discussing the subject, one taking the positive and the other the negative side.

The peddler can come into the ville and for a dollar a day dispose of his wares on the streets. ## Friends Entertained At Rockey Home in Ashville

Guests Invited to Luncheon
Wednesday

Daffodils and various other seasonal flowers formed the centerpiece of the table when Mrs. C. J. Rockey of Ashville entertained at an early Spring luncheon, Wednesday. Candles of rainbow hues completed the decorations.

Covers were placed for Mrs. Elgar Barrere, and house guest, Miss Anna Thompson, of California, Miss Charlotte Caldwell, Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, Mrs. Stanley Glick, of the Circleville community; Miss Margaret Miller and Mrs. Clara Rugh, of Duval; Mrs. Seymour Millar, Mrs. Maude Hines, Mrs. Charles Cromley and Mrs. Rockey, of Ashville.

Following the luncheon at 1 o'clock, an informal social hour was enjoyed.

Fall Conference
The Fall conference of the seventh district American Legion Auxiliary will be held in New Holland. This was decided at the all-day conference, Tuesday, at the new Legion home in Chillicothe.

Eleven units of the 17 in the district's eight counties were represented at the session. Roll call revealed representatives from chapters in Circleville, West Union, Manchester, Washington C. H., Hillsboro, Greenfield, Ironton, New Holland, Bainbridge, Portsmouth and Chillicothe.

Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, Mrs. Allen Thornton, Mrs. Walter Stout and Mrs. James Stout, of Circleville, were present for the conference.

Mrs. H. E. Simpson, department auxiliary president, and Mrs. Lee Moore department secretary, gave talks. Auxiliary activities for each month in the year were briefly outlined by Mrs. Simpson. Mrs. Moore's talk was inspired by the afternoon visit to the Chillicothe Veterans' hospital.

Mrs. George Mytinger, accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Wisecup, sang three numbers in the musical program of the afternoon. Tea was served after the business meeting adjourned. Mrs. Charles L. Henderson, district president, and Mrs. Simpson, poured. Past presidents of the Chillicothe auxiliary served.

Bridge Club Meets
Miss Ruth Stout was an additional guest Wednesday evening when Miss Peggy Parks was hostess to her bridge club. Two tables of contract bridge were in play during the evening with prizes awarded Miss Helen Yates, Miss Alice Roof and Miss Virginia Marion when the scores were tallied.

A salad course was served at the small tables at the conclusion of the games. The club met at the Sandwich Grill.

Mount Pleasant Opens Church Supper Season

BY LYALL CRYDER

The open season for country church suppers was initiated Wednesday evening in great style at Mt. Pleasant church, one of the county's oldest and most active rural places of worship. From five o'clock on, the roads leading to the church carried a steady stream of cars. Entire families, groups of friends, former church members, all heading one way, some with the idea only of getting a good meal of country home cooked food, others with food secondary to the thought of meeting old friends and acquaintances.

Rain pouring steadily did not dampen the spirits of that crowd. Glancing out the windows of the cars during the drive, one was rewarded with glimpses of the country side rich in the promise of the coming season. The brilliant green of the fields of wheat shown in contrast to the newly-ploughed fields ready for the time of planting other crops. Here and there fruit trees bursting into blossom were seen and admired with the hope that they were not too optimistic in this quite uncertain climate of ours.

Spring was in evidence in the little brick church, where willing hands had placed bouquets of early flowering Spring blossoms on the tables, tall yellow candles bravely continuing the color scheme. There, all was hustle and bustle as the four long tables and the one round one in the exact center of the long room were filled again and again. Heaping plates of delicious food were passed by busy hands, and the crowning touch, bowls of rich golden noodles, real homemade ones, were offered for serious consideration.

In the kitchen glimpses were caught of the members of the Ladies' Aid society doing their part of the affair. It is a source of wonder just what would become of the churches of the land without their Ladies' Aid societies. They are called on to help out in every way from paying for the new roof on the parsonage to helping out with the preacher's salary, and, undaunted, they answer all calls. It sometimes seems that if there was a Ladies' Aid society in Washington to help out the government, that the national debt might be cleaned up in no time at all. Just a matter of a few pies and cakes with maybe a batch or two of doughnuts thrown in for good measure!

There really is something about such a gathering as that at Mt. Pleasant that lifts it out of the class of a crowd assembled only for the purpose of eating another meal. There one saw friendly smiles and heard conversations of interesting homely affairs. There was mingling of people of different communities, from Circleville, Williamsport, and the surrounding towns. Surely the country church supper as exemplified by the one at Mt. Pleasant is one of the greatest and soundest of American institutions, serving not only food for the body but food for the soul in the pleasant friendly association of the hour.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAF

this pale green caterpillar with a brown head, rolls up and lives in the folds of the leaf.

If there are only a few such infested leaves you can pick them off by hand and burn them. Do this as soon as the "rolls" are noticed. When the plants are heavily infested, dust with 85 percent hydrated lime plus 15 percent lead arsenate, or spray with lead arsenate, using three tablespoons to a gallon of water.

At this season great care should be exercised, when digging in the vicinity of any of the perennial vegetables, such as asparagus and rhubarb, lest the young shoots be broken as they start up through the soil.

Except for heavy clay soils work can probably start in the vegetable garden soon, but should not start, of course, as long as there is any frost on the ground. It is better to be late with the job of preparing the garden than to spoil everything by working the soil before it is ready.

33 KNOWN DEAD, HUNDREDS HURT IN MIDDLEWEST

Governors Of Kansas and Illinois Send Aid To Stricken Regions

Rail Offices Ruined

The Northwestern railroad's division offices were ruined. The railroad roundhouse had been picked up off its foundations and dropped in wreckage. Workmen inside were unharmed.

Mrs. Julia Kennedy, chairman of the Peoria Red Cross, quietly directed the rescue squads. She estimated at least 600 of South Pekin's 1,300 inhabitants were affected directly by death, injury or loss of home.

Townpeople who stood in the streets or near their wrecked homes as if stunned told of freakish twists of the storm:

A crippled boy left unharmed when the house was lifted from over his head.

A woman stepping from a church, struck by a load of bricks, killed.

A telephone post pierced by dozens of straws.

Approximately 600 miles and four hours back along the path of the storm lay Columbus, Kans., a similar picture of desolation.

Seven were dead there and sheriff's deputies stood guard against looters. Hospitals were filled to overflowing and patients laid three in a bed. More than 100 were treated.

Many of the injured were children.

No estimates of damage were possible because the storm in its erratic course struck scores of unfrequented areas. Large centers of population were spared—St. Louis by a scant 10 miles.

Here is how the tornado cut its path of devastation:

Avant, Okla.—Small structures damaged; teacher herded school children to safety before wind damaged building. One injured.

Ramona, Okla.—Storm dipped, damaging houses. One injured.

Ogleby, Okla.—School smashed over heads of 60 children, burying four who were rescued.

Heber Springs, Ark.—Four dead, 20 in hospital, two near death. One farm family missing.

Neeleyville, Mo.—Four killed.

Hollow, Okla.—Motorist rushed 13 school children to storm cellar. Conway, Ark.—Farmer's wife killed, houses damaged.

Columbus, Kans.—Seven killed, at least 100 injured. Gov. Huxman in charge of relief. Fifty houses wrecked.

Lamar, Mo.—Houses unroofed. Murry, Mo.—One killed, 11 injured as storm cut 10-mile path through six rural settlements.

Shaw, Mo.—One killed.

Venice, Ill.—Man killed when blown from bridge.

Timewell, Ill.—Farmer killed. Astoria, Ill.—Farmer killed when barn collapsed dropping 10 tons of hay on him.

Deer Creek, Ill.—Woman killed when house collapsed as she dashed for cellar.

South Pekin, Ill.—Six killed, many injured. Half the town wrecked.

The storm cut across the Mississippi just north of St. Louis—a metropolitan area of 3,500,000—and plunged into Illinois at East Alton. It drove about 30 miles northeasterly to Galesburg without serious damage and only one death.

Then it hopped almost northwesterly 50 miles to Timewell where it reformed and began its destructive course across South Pekin to the vicinity of Eureka, east of Peoria, where it dissipated itself in hail and rain.

National guardmen, Red Cross workers and state police hurried into the stricken area. They were handicapped by lack of lights or communications.

Five suspected looters were reported in custody at South Pekin. The state police established an emergency station in the lobby of the hotel, one of the few remaining buildings of any size.

Blankets, sandwiches and milk were sent into damaged houses. Many families persisted in remaining in their wrecked houses at South Pekin.

In the course of his long political career, William Jennings Bryan ran for president of the United States on tickets of 36 different political parties.

THREE VICTIMS OF CRASH INTO PACIFIC FOUND

Wreckage Believed to Hold Other Bodies; Survivor Swims For Aid

(Continued from Page One) from Johnstown island, where the planes are stationed during practice flights. A part of one wing was visible in water 20 feet deep when rescue workers reached it.

One Body Floating

The body of C. H. O'Neal, 31, of Trumbull, Tex., was floating near the plane. A few hours later the body of Lieut. L. O. Crane, pilot, was removed from the cockpit. Naval headquarters had not been advised of the identity of the second man whose body was recovered.

The others still missing were:

W. H. Lear, 27, aviation cadet, Honolulu.

B. I. Windham, co-pilot, Honolulu.

V. A. Luciano, 24, radioman, Baltimore, Md.

C. J. Miles, 20, Wilmette, Ill., radioman, swam ashore and notified authorities that the plane had crashed. H. F. Bartz, 29, of Bartlett, Ill., aviation machinist's mate, collapsed on the beach after reaching safety. He was found unconscious and was revived.

Bartz attempted to save the life of O'Neal by inflating a life belt that O'Neal was wearing and then attempting to pull him ashore.

Bartz abandoned his companion when he became exhausted.

Authorities said Crane had attempted to land when the ceiling was reduced to 600 feet because of a heavy fog.

Naval planes have been active in the war games for a week. Two others have been forced to make emergency landings, each of which was successful.

PLACING THE HONORS
A DOUBLE or other strong action during the bidding can enable the declarer to place the high honors with one particular defender. In planning his play, it usually will pay to count the other defender for any low honors that may prove important, as few completely honorless hands are dealt.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South's original bid here was 1-Spade, which West doubled. North called 2-Diamonds, East passed, South went to 2-No Trumps, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps.

The heart K was led against this contract and the A in dummy won the trick. Three rounds of clubs were now taken, and with the heart

A gone from the dummy, South's problem was how to enter dummy to cash the set-up clubs.
Reading West for the diamond A, in view of his double, but being uncertain as to where the J might be, the declarer played the diamond Q, and when West failed to cover, went right up with the K. This play enabled him to make his contract.

West would not have gained anything by going in with the A, for at that event, he could have cashed only that trick and three hearts.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SHOWS PROGRESS

MINISTER ACTS AS MODERATOR AT CONFERENCE

Officers Selected For Fiscal Year; Sunday School Head Named

Reports of broadening of activities, a sound financial condition and the addition of 14 new members were highlights of the annual congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church held Wednesday evening.

Eighty-five persons attended the covered dish dinner and congregational session. The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey acted as moderator.

Church officers elected were: elders, E. A. Brown, Marvin Steely and Mrs. G. H. Colville, and deacons, Donald Watt, Homer Quillen and T. A. Renick. They serve three-year terms. Trustees elected were George Foresman and T. M. Glick. J. O. Eagleton acted as chairman of the trustees' meeting.

Yearly Reports Heard

Yearly reports of the various church departments were given by E. O. Crites, clerk of the session; Lemuel Weldon, clerk of the deacons; George McDowell, acting superintendent of the Sunday school; Miss Katherine Bockart, secretary of the Sunday school; George Hammel, Sunday school treasurer; Mrs. Grace Wentworth, report of the Women's Missionary society; Mrs. Edward Stephens, treasurer of the Ladies' Aid society; Mrs. Hulse Hays, president of the Women's Social club; Miss Eleanor Dreisbach, president of the Tuxis club; Mrs. S. M. Cryder, treasurer of the Westminster Bible class; Mrs. George Hammel, treasurer of the Women's Bible class; George Grand-Girard, superintendent of church benevolences, and Mrs. George McDowell, superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday school; Donald H. Watt, of the Presby-Weds. Harp Van Riper was clerk of the meeting.

Franklin Price, of Jackson township, has been appointed by Mr. McDowell as superintendent of the adult department of the Sunday school.

By-laws of the church were changed so officers may serve consecutive terms. Under the original regulations this was not permitted.

A committee comprised of Messrs. McDowell, Grand-Girard, Weldon, Mrs. Grace Wentworth and Miss Clara Southward was appointed by the pastor to consider budgets for church benevolences.

Recent reorganization of the Sunday school and the advancement of departmental work was reported by the Rev. Mr. Kelsey. The school has been organized into a beginners and primary department, junior and intermediate department and the adult group.

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey has served as the pastor for five months and 10 days. In that period he has officiated at 13 funerals, conducted eight weddings and completed calls to almost every church member. He announced that on April 10 a class of 14 new members will be received.

Spanish Loyalists Break Dams to Halt Their Foes

MENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, March 31—(UP)—Flood waters, pouring down the Cinca river from dams dynamited by the Loyalists, slowed the Nationalist advance today and delayed capture of Lerida, the Loyalist general headquarters.

Timing themselves with the Asturian "dynamiteros" who mined the dams, the Loyalists counter-attacked strongly in the outskirts of interrupted.

Neither Nationalists nor Loyalists, however, expected that Lerida, capital of Lerida province and first sizeable town in the path of the Nationalist advance into Catalonia, could resist long.

Farther south the Loyalists, realizing that the gravest threat on the entire front lay in a possible Nationalist thrust to the seacoast near the mouths of the Ebro river.

REPORTS ABOUT CARAVAN VISIT ARE CHECKED

Incorrect reports, their source unknown, have been circulated in Circleville recently concerning the Northwest Territory celebration to be held on May 9. Meeker Terwilliger, general chairman in charge of arrangements, said Thursday.

The rumors were that the caravan would not participate in the parade being planned.

Mr. Terwilliger checked with the state commission in charge of the celebrations and received the following information from B. J. Mullen, director of the commission:

"I am sorry you are receiving confusing rumors relative to the caravan. The men, ox team and covered wagon will be at your disposal when in Circleville and will form a very picturesque part of your parade. Any official announcements regarding the caravan will come from this office and if I were you I would disregard all others."

As the water rose, and the Loyalists calculated that its effect was being felt in disorganization of Nationalist communications, Loyalist shock troops of the famous international brigades, counter-attacked outside Lerida, after a sham retreat into the city's outskirts.

On this front, Generalissimo Francisco Franco was directing Nationalist operations.

Dispatches from the Loyalist side reported that Lerida appeared to be emptying and that the Nationalist general headquarters already had been moved to the East.

These same informants disclosed that veteran Gen. Sebastian Pozas, commander in chief of the Loyalist armies in the northeast, was no longer in active command."

South of the Lerida sector, in the Alcaniz-Caspe sector, the Nationalists reached Monroyo by taking villages along the Zaragoza-Alcaniz-Valencia road. They were less than 35 miles from the sea.

It was here that the two crack Spanish divisions were thrown into the lines, to meet a Nationalist army which included the Italian "Black Arrow" divisions.

A break through here would mean the separation of Barcelona from Valencia and Madrid; the fall of Lerida would be merely a step in the penetration of Catalonia, even though it is the junction for main highways to France, and to Barcelona — 77 miles east — and Tarragona, valuable seaport and capital of Tarragona province.
